

Gli autori di questo numero

Giovanna Brogi is a former Professor of Slavic Studies at the University of Milan. She is currently President of the Italian Association of Ukrainian Studies. Her main research interests focus on medieval Eastern Slavic Literature, Baroque Literature in the Ruthenian lands, and Ukrainian literature.

Marina Ciccarini is Full Professor of Polish literature at the University of Rome "Tor Vergata". Her fields of research include text criticism and Polish sixteenth-century memoirs, seventeenth-century Russian-Polish comparative studies, the Polish literary canon and literature in late Baroque and Enlightenment era, Polish romanticism, and twentieth-century theatre and poetry. Among her publications are: Ultimi roghi. Fede e tolleranza alla fine del Seicento: il caso di A.Ch. Belobockij (2008), Żart, inność, zbawienie. Studia z kultury i literatury polskiej (2008). She has also translated and edited the following poetry collections: E. Lipska, L'occhio incrinato del tempo (2013), E. Lipska, Il lettore di impronte digitali e altre poesie (2017), M. Lebda, La cella reale (2018).

Grzegorz Franczak is Associate Professor at the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures, University of Milan. His research interest include Old Polish literature, book editing, travel writing, Polish-Italian and Polish-Muscovites relationships, cartography, and literature. He is the author of the study Vix imitabilis. La Griselda polacca fra letteratura e cultura popolare (2006), editor of Old Polish books (i.a. P. Palczowski, Kolęda moskiewska, 2010; W. Neothebel, Acrostichis własnego wyobrażenia kniaża wielkiego moskiewskiego, 2016), translator of poetry: Latin (i.a. Katullus, Poezje wszystkie, 2013), Neo-Latin and Italian (i.a. G. Leopardi, Nieskończoność. Wybór pieśni, 2000 and G. Ungaretti, Radość katastrof, 2019).

Urszula Kowalczuk is Adjunct Professor at the University of Warsaw. Among her research interests are: literary criticism and historical-literary discourse in the second half of the nineteenth and early twentieth century; changing forms of literary reflection on the past in the nineteenth century, nineteenth- and twentieth-century biography and biography studies. Author of the books: Felicjan Faleński. Twórczość i obecność (2002) i Powinność i przygoda. Pisarze polscy drugiej połowy XIX wieku wobec kultury renesansu (2011). She co-edited the volumes: Konstelacje Stanisława Brzozowskiego (2012), Historie literatury polskiej 1864-1914 (2015), Szkoła Główna. Kręgi wpływów (2017), Szkoła Główna. Kręgi wpływów 2 (2019), Literatura i kultura lat 60. XIX wieku między polityką a prywatnością. Dyslokacje (2019). She is also associate editor-in-chief of the journal "Prace Filologiczne. Literaturoznawstwa".

Tomasz Jędrzejewski is Assistant Professor at the Institute of Polish Literature, University of Warsaw. His research focuses on history of literature (especially Classicism, Rococo, Sentimentalism, Romanticism, and the relationship between press and literature). His publications include Literatura w warszawskiej prasie kulturalnej pogranicza oświecenia i romantyzmu (2016) and Czytanie Dziadów w czterech częściach (2018).

Michał Nowakowski is head of the research project The world of values of old Polish diplomatic manuals in the context of early modern European thought on diplomacy pursued at the John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin. His research interests focus on early modern diplomacy, the political discourse of the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth, and Jesuit political thought.

Emilian Prąt is Assistant Professor in the Faculty of Polish and Classical Philology, Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań. He is an art historian and Slavic philologist. He received a PhD with a thesis on Slavia Graeco-Romana. On the borderline of text and image – about illumination of old-southern Slavic manuscripts (XII-XIV centuries). His interests include history of the gentry and its artistic patronage, iconography, reception processes, cross cultural communication, and cultural boundaries. He has published 13 monographs and several articles. He is a scholarship holder of the Lanckoroński Foundation, Fondazione Romana Marchesa J.S. Umiastowska, Minister of Science and Higher Education, Minister of Culture and National Heritage. He is a social activist and dynamically works to protect monuments and cultural heritage, for which he was awarded by the General Conservator of Monuments of the Republic of Poland.

Laura Quercioli Mincer is Associate Professor of Polish Literature and Culture at the University of Genoa. She is the author of a hundred articles on Polish-Jewish culture and the forms of transmission of memory, and of over twenty translations from Polish and Yiddish. In 2020, the Warsaw-based publisher Sic! printed the Polish translation of her monograph Prison Was My Home. Prison and Total Institutions in Polish Literature (first edition 2014). Since 2017 she has been working on a project promoted by the Italian Institute of Germanic Studies entitled Intermediality, History, Memory and Myth. Paths of contemporary art between Germany and Poland.

Carlos Hugo Sierra holds PhD in Sociology of Science from the University of the Basque Country (UPV/EHU). He is Professor of Philosophy of Science at the University of Antioquia (UdeA) and Director of the Center for Philosophy of Science and Technology – Institute of Science, Biotechnology and Health Innovation (IDCBIS). Sierra is a member of the European Society for the History of Science (ESHS), coordinator of the International Research Group on Environmental Epistemology (NIPEA), and editor of "Cosmotheoros. International Journal of Environmental Epistemology".

Agnieszka White graduated in Polish Philology at the University of Warsaw; she obtained her PhD in Cultural Studies at the same university. Her research interests include travel writing and cultural relationships between Poland and England. She is the author of Obraz kultury Rzeczypospolitej w angielskich relacjach podróżniczych (koniec XVI i XVII wiek) (2014).

Magdalena Zabielska, PhD, is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Sociolinguistics and Discourse Studies at the Adam Mickiewicz University's Faculty of English, Poznań (Poland). Her research interests lie in broadly understood healthcare communication. She has published several papers on the patient's presence in specialist medical publications in the context of a patient-centred approach to medical practice.

Magda Żelazowska-Sobczyk, PhD, is an Assistant Professor at the Institute of Specialized and Intercultural Communication, Faculty of Applied Linguistics at the University of Warsaw. Her research interests include medical language (Polish, English, and Russian) and communication in medicine, scientific writing (especially case reporting), and translation studies. She is also interested in ENT language and communication, which reflects her professional collaboration with the Institute of Sensory Organs.